

STATEMENT

As a multifaceted storyteller, I intentionally craft narratives that span written articles, graphic design projects, photography projects, video productions, and marketing campaigns for social media, email, and website. With over seven years of experience, my expertise, versatility, and innovation as a visual and written content creator are evident from the range of projects highlighted on my portfolio.

WORK EXPERIENCE

Communications Specialist, Department of Communication Arts

10/2024 – Present

University of Wisconsin–Madison
Madison, Wisconsin

Lead the department's communications, content development, social media, and storytelling efforts to support and expand upon its reputation as a top educational program for the next generation of communicators. Collaborate with and mentor student communicators in content development for print and digital newsletters, social media, news articles, photography, website content and design, and video productions. Develop multi-media fundraising campaigns that engage with alumni which have collectively raised over $85,000. Manage social media accounts and track growth over time, which includes over 35% increase in Instagram followers and over 170% increase in LinkedIn followers since October 2024. Implement course promotion campaigns to maintain the strength of class offerings for students. Build and maintain relationships with internal and external stakeholders to bolster long-term communications projects and goals.

ACHIEVEMENTS

Vilas Voice, Managing Editor

10/2024 – Present

Editions: Fall 2025, Spring 2025, and Fall 2024

This alumni newsletter highlights recent Department of Communication Arts projects, courses, students, and alumni and is shared with over 16,000 individuals. Wrote four articles and developed the print newsletter design for the Fall 2024 edition within one month of starting the role. Encouraged the Department Chair in Spring 2025 to support an additional digital newsletter to build more non-fundraising communications with department stakeholders. Redesigned the print layout in Fall 2025 to establish a more professional and sophisticated visual tone, in addition to writing five stories and capturing photos for the annual print edition of the newsletter.

Day of the Badger Fundraising Campaign

04/2025 & 04/2026

Developed two multi-media campaigns to elicit donations to the Department of Communication Arts during campus-wide fundraisers. Materials included three music videos, over 20 social media posts, news articles highlighting how past funding made an impact, website development, mass emails, student events, and board of visitor support materials. The 2025 campaign gathered 204 gifts and raised over $30,000, and the 2026 campaign drew in 155 gifts totaling over $41,000 for the department, each within two days.

Social Media Growth and Management

10/2024 - Present

Revived social media accounts for the Department of Communication Arts and began development of strategic content that aims to increase followers, viewership, and engagement across posts.

Since October 2024, specific growth analytics include:
